Words you can actually use

Bangla meanings · English patterns · Real situations

Book 2 · Your vocabulary companion

240 target words and expressions, organized into 20 practical themes.

শুধু অর্থ নয়, কোন পরিস্থিতিতে কীভাবে ব্যবহার করবেন সেটাও শিখুন।

Each entry gives a Bangla meaning, a useful pattern or usage note, and a natural English example. The examples show the intended meaning; they do not list every possible meaning of the word.

Use this book with English for Everyday Confidence. Learn five entries at a time, make them personal, and retrieve them without looking.

Includes commonly confused expressions, 40 context questions, answers with explanations, and an alphabetical lookup index.

The goal is a usable core vocabulary for everyday communication, not a claim to contain every English word.

01 · How to use this companion

Learn the expression, not only the translation

“Suggest” means প্রস্তাব দেওয়া, but meaning alone does not tell you how to build the sentence. Learn “suggest doing something”: “I suggest leaving early.” Do not copy the pattern of “want to leave” into “suggest to leave.”

Each card contains: target expression → Bangla meaning → pattern or context → example. Treat the meaning as the sense used in that example. A word such as charge, point, or mean can have other meanings elsewhere.

Five entries, five personal sentences

1. Read the English expression and its Bangla meaning.
2. Say the example aloud and notice the word partners.
3. Cover the example and use the expression in your own sentence.
4. Explain the situation in which you would say your sentence.
5. Review tomorrow and again after 3, 7, and 14 days. Adjust the schedule if needed.

Example: “available” → সময় আছে এমন → “Are you available on Friday?” → “I'm available after work, but not before six.”

Test active use

Recognition: “I understand it when I see it.” Recall: “I can produce it from a situation.” Flexible use: “I can change the person, time, or purpose.” Aim for flexible use. Do not count an entry as mastered merely because its Bangla meaning looks familiar.

Read patterns carefully

“+ -ing” means an -ing form follows: avoid rushing. “Base verb” means the dictionary form: can help. “Someone/something” are slots to replace: explain the issue to me. They are not words you must say in every sentence.

For separable phrasal verbs, a pronoun often goes in the middle: turn it off, pick me up, sort it out. For look after or look into, it stays after the full expression: look after her, look into it.

Where to find things

Themes 1-20 are on pages 2-21. Confusing expressions are on pages 22-23. Context practice is on pages 24-25. Answers are on page 26. The alphabetical index starts on page 27.

The 240 targets include single words, phrasal verbs, and conversation phrases. The verb list in Book 1 gives additional forms and Bangla meanings for common verbs.

22 · Similar words, different jobs

Pair	Difference	Examples
say / tell	Say something; tell someone something.	She said hello. She told me the news.
speak / talk	Both can describe conversation; speak also names language ability.	I speak Bangla. Let's talk about the plan.
hear / listen	Hear = শুনতে পাওয়া; listen = মন দিয়ে শোনা.	I heard a noise. Listen to the instructions.
look / see / watch	Look = তাকানো; see = দেখতে পাওয়া; watch = মনোযোগ দিয়ে দেখা.	Look at the photo. I can see you. We watched a film.
borrow / lend	Borrow = ধার নেওয়া; lend = ধার দেওয়া.	Can I borrow your pen? Could you lend me your pen?
bring / take	Bring often moves toward the speaker or reference point; take moves elsewhere.	Bring your notes to our meeting. Take this form to the office.
job / work	Job is countable; work is usually uncountable when meaning employment or tasks.	I have a new job. I have a lot of work today.
advice / advise	Advice is a noun; advise is a verb.	Thanks for the advice. What do you advise me to do?
affect / effect	Affect is usually a verb; effect is usually a noun in everyday use.	Noise affects my sleep. The change had a positive effect.
remember / remind	Remember = মনে থাকা; remind = মনে করিয়ে দেওয়া.	I remember the date. Please remind me tomorrow.
bored / boring	Bored describes how someone feels; boring describes what causes that feeling.	I felt bored. The talk was boring.
interested / interesting	Interested describes the person's response; interesting describes the thing.	I'm interested in history. The story is interesting.

Practise both sides

Say two true sentences with each pair. Then explain the difference in Bangla. For example: “Can I borrow your book?” means আমি কি আপনার বইটা ধার নিতে পারি? “Can you lend me your book?” asks the owner to give it temporarily. Both can achieve the same practical request, but the grammatical perspective changes.

Tone note: Calling a person boring can sound insulting. Describe the specific activity or explain your preference when that is what you mean.

23 · Small differences that change the meaning

Expressions	Difference and examples
on time / in time	On time = নির্ধারিত সময়ে: “The class started on time.” In time = দেরি হওয়ার আগে: “I arrived in time to get a seat.”
by / until	By sets the latest completion time: “Send it by Friday.” Until describes continuation: “I'll stay until Friday.”
since / for	Since + starting point: “since 2022.” For + duration: “for four years.”
used to / be used to / get used to	Past habit: “I used to work nights.” Familiar state: “I'm used to working nights.” Becoming familiar: “I'm getting used to working nights.”
stop doing / stop to do	“I stopped checking my phone” = I quit that action. “I stopped to check my phone” = I paused another activity so I could check it.
mustn't / don't have to	“You mustn't enter” = entry is prohibited. “You don't have to enter” = entry is not required.
few / a few	“I have few options” emphasizes scarcity. “I have a few options” emphasizes that some exist. Both take plural countable nouns.
little / a little	“I have little time” emphasizes shortage. “I have a little time” means some time is available. Both take uncountable nouns.
alone / lonely	Alone = একা থাকা. Lonely = একাকিত্ব অনুভব করা. “I was alone, but I didn't feel lonely.”
actually / currently	Actually = আসলে; currently = বর্তমানে. “Actually, I live in Sylhet.” “I'm currently visiting Dhaka.”
especially / specially	Especially often means particularly: “I enjoy reading, especially stories.” Specially often means for a particular purpose: “This bag was specially made for the equipment.”
fluent / accurate	Fluent emphasizes ease and flow; accurate emphasizes correctness. You can be stronger in one than the other. Practise both.

Two polite-response traps

“Would you mind opening the door?” → “Not at all” or “Of course, I'll open it.” A bare “yes” can imply that you do mind. A clear action response avoids confusion.

“I'm afraid I can't come” usually introduces unwelcome news politely. It does not necessarily mean the speaker feels fear. Likewise, “I see your point” acknowledges understanding; it does not necessarily mean agreement.
